Food, Nutrition and Health: Translating science into practice

Dear all,

On behalf of the Federation of European Nutrition Societies (FENS), I am delighted to invite you to attend the 14th European Nutrition Conference to be held in Belgrade the capital city of Serbia from the 14th to the 17th of November 2023.

The theme of the conference is “Food, Nutrition and Health: Translating science into practice”. Around this theme the conference will deliver a high quality programme, featuring international speakers across plenary sessions and symposia. Other features of the programme will be discussions and debates, industry symposia, panel sessions and networking opportunities including several specifically catering to early career researchers.

The 14th European Nutrition Conference will provide opportunities to hear experts and to catch up on the latest science, as well as to become better informed about areas of controversy. The conference will include social events and plenty of possibilities to meet old friends and to make new ones. The topics of the planned conference symposia are broad and will appeal to all those interested in experimental, clinical and public health nutrition.

Belgrade is a vibrant, modern city with a long and interesting history. You will find plenty to do outside of the conference.

I look forward to welcoming you in Belgrade in November 2023.

Philip Calder
President FENS
Dear colleagues and friends,

We are delighted to invite you to the 14th European Nutrition Conference (ENC) to be held in Belgrade, Serbia, 14-17th November 2023. ENC is the four-annualy event organized by the Federation of European Nutrition Societies (FENS) and one of its national members. This time the host is the Serbian Nutrition Society. Belgrade was selected at the General FENS Assembly during 13th ENC held in 2019 in Dublin, Republic of Ireland.

Nutrition is always an intriguing and powerful topic important to the everyday lives, health and wellbeing of billions of people. It is also the center of the scientific investigation and the professional mission for thousands of researchers dedicated to uncover the complex mysteries of balanced, adequate, sustainable, and sufficient diet for everyone. The Scientific Committee is preparing innovative, inspiring and intriguing program that will try under the overall Conference slogan to bring science and practice closer. Scientific nutrition research and the use of its results in practice can make significant contribution to the sustainable development goals and to addressing important dietary related health challenges.

The Conference is planned to be a traditional person-to-person meeting, that we believe all participants would prefer, and it will contain keynote lectures, symposia, educational workshops, interactive sessions, poster presentations, and meet-the-industry sessions of interest for both students and young nutrition professionals. The Exhibition will be also organized for the stakeholders from food industry. The Conference will be held in the renovated Sava Center that will cordially open its halls, meeting rooms, foyers to cover all the needs of the participants, but also making warm-hearted, cozy and slightly retro atmosphere well-suited for conversation and socializing.

Located at the confluence of the Sava and Danube rivers, Belgrade „The White Town” is one of the oldest and largest urban towns on the Balkans. Belgrade is the capital of Serbia, with about 1.6 million inhabitants.

Belgrade is an educational, cultural, scientific and financial center of Serbia. There is something about Belgrade which attracts people to visit it again. One of the most famous writers in Serbia Duško Radović once said: „Whoever had been lucky to wake up in Belgrade this morning, could be satisfied that for today he achieved enough in life. Any further insistence on something more, would be immodest.”

Serbian traditional cuisine contains a myriad of tastes and smells, much owing to the mixture of influences of various peoples who were just passing through or were living in this region. As is the case with the culture in general, this fusion of different influences resulted in originality, so that today a rich Serbian table offers unforgettable tastes that can only be enjoyed in Serbia.

Serbian cuisine is characterized by highly diverse, solid and spicy food, which can be roughly described as a mixture of Greek, Bulgarian, Turkish and Hungarian cuisine. I look forward to welcoming you at the 14th ENC in Belgrade in November 2023.

Prof. Sladjana Sobajic, Chair of the ENC
